BENEFIT DANCE GIVEN FOR BAND UNIFORM FUND

There Will Be a Big Time For All Who Come to Colombo Hall On December 15

In an effort to promote interest in our band and to secure more money for the purpose of purchasing uniforms, arrangements have been completed for a grand ball to be given at Colombo Hall in Colma on Saturday evening, December 15.

This affair is being sponsored by the Community Welfare Association of Daly City and is being handled by a joint committee representing this association and the Daly City Band. The entire proceeds derived from the dance will be used to swell the Uniform Fund for the Daly City Band.

It has been arranged to give a cash door prize of Ten Dollars to the holder of the lucky ticket, and the nominal admission price of 25 cents should insure a large attendance.

In addition to dancing, there will be other entertainment features and diversions. Refreshments will also be available to those desiring same.

A large orchestra will be on hand to furnish the music and a good time is promised by the committee to all who attend. The orchestra will be composed of members of the band.

As an advertising feature, arrangements have been made to have the band discourse music at various points and on the streets of both Daly City and Colma on several evenings before the date of the dance. It is expected many citizens will turn out to lend encouragement and enjoy excellent music.

In addition to the door prize, there will be a number of other valuable prizes available. These will be on display in the near future in a storeroom at the "top of the hill."

Every citizen should lend a helping hand to this worthy cause by purchasing tickets and inducing others to do so, and also by attending the dance. By helping to make this affair a success you are helping promote the welfare of the entire community of Daly City, as there can be no greater advertising advantage than the display of a properly uniformed band to represent the city.

Civic pride should impel all citizens to show their public spirit by supporting this movement.

Remember this is YOUR Band and a wonderful advertisement for YOUR city when the aim has become an accomplished reality.

The band is rendering some excellent music every Tuesday evening at the Daly City Auditorium. Why not go up and listen some evening and show your appreciation for their efforts to serve the city.

Don't forget the date—Saturday evening, December 15; and the place—Colombo Hall, Colma.

Remember, and BE THERE!

LOCAL BUTCHER MEETS DEATH IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Young Man Instantly Killed As Car Plunges Over Steep Embankment

In the plunge of a heavy sedan over a hundred foot embankment on the Tunitas road, nine miles south of Half Moon Bay, Sunday night, one young man lost his life and two others were injured.

The dead youth is Nicholas Licursi of 210 Maynard street, San Francisco, who was instantly killed. The young man had been employed in Daly City by Russell Orr, proprietor of the Daly City Cut Rate Meat Market on Mission street, for about three years past.

Charles Saluzzo, the driver of the machine, also a resident of San Francisco, in the opinion of authorities, lost control of the car on a fairly straight stretch of road at a time when traffic was light in that section. He sustained a compound fracture of the left leg and possible internal injuries.

Charles Macaluso, also a San Francisco resident, was the other occupant of the car. He was not seriously injured, being treated at the Mills Memorial Hospital for cuts and bruises.

The trio were returning from a visit to the country home of one of their number on King's Mountain.

The funeral of young Licursi was conducted Thursday morning from Corpus Christi Church in San Francisco.

GOV. MERRIAM IN FORCEFUL TALK TO KIWANIS CLUB

Praises Roosevelt Policies And Discusses Situation In Our Own State

Governor Frank F. Merriam gave this heartening message to the many citizens and county and city officials who attended the luncheon, Tuesday, of the San Mateo-Burlingame Kiwanis Club at the Hotel Benjamin Franklin.

" Employment insurance, the old age pension and the shorter week of work must be incorporated in the legislative program for permanent relief," Governor Merriam asserted, "but California alone cannot solve the problem. The federal government must lead the way, for any one state making itself a more desirable place in which to work and live would throw itself open to hordes of needy folk from the other states."

In speaking of the $5,500,000 per month being spent by federal, state and county governments for relief in California, Merriam said the situation must be met and solved once and for all. He congratulated President Roosevelt on his leadership in the nation's crisis.

"I did not vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt," said Governor Merriam, "but I congratulate the country on having for its president a man who is putting forth such sincere and strenuous efforts to bring us out of our troubles. All of his efforts cannot succeed, but some will, and I assure him that he has the full support of the governor and people of California.

"Radical steps must be taken, but not as radical as some people would have us take," Merriam declared in making a veiled reference to radicals and their doctrines. "Safe, sound systems of employment insurance, old age pensions and possibly a thirty hour week must be enacted in law for permanent relief."

Following the Kiwanis luncheon, Governor Merriam enjoyed the races at Bay Meadows racetrack.

Mining Development Depends On Roads

By J. W. MARCHBANK
(Pioneer in Frontier Mining Work)

Specifically a number of sections in Alaska are going ahead fast, principally on account of the help furnished by adequate roads. Not so long ago I read of the work the Alaska Road Commission did on the Cantwell-Valdez Creek Road. About twenty miles of the contemplated sixty miles have been constructed.

In another report I read that in the Hope section, hydraulic and placer mining are booming and as soon as the "missing link" of the highway is completed that will permit of the landing of supplies and equipment direct from Seward with the Moose Pass and Hope-Sunrise properties, there will be greatly awakened activity.

Here is a significant paragraph about the possibilities of that particular section:

"Transportation has for years been the greatest handicap that this section has suffered under. With the completion of the highway and possibly the building of a landing field for planes, this section should undergo a boom that will go far toward bringing in an era of prosperity to the Kenai Peninsula."

* * *

Under the title, "The International Highway," the Juneau Alaska Press had these pertinent words shortly after the filing of a report on the construction of the main artery:

The favorable report of the commission on construction of the International Highway is a source of much satisfaction to Alaskans. Where a few years ago this proposal was regarded principally as a subject for idle chatter, it now is actually upon the threshold of accomplishment. With money to spend for the double purpose of creating better transportation facilities and providing work, the Alaska part of the project is easy. There remains only for Canala to acquiesce and make her arrangements.

The value of such a highway to the North can scarcely be estimated, but it is a safe conjecture that the first five years after it is opened will do more for the development of Alaska than the last twenty-five years have seen in the way of progress.

The immediate results of the highway will be the opening of more mining ground and the beginning of automobile tourists business. After that will come settlers who will take to the soil. That will be the making of Alaska.

Millions can make a living in Alaska from the land, and roads will bring them in. Alaska will develop only as fast as her transportation facilities, and the opening of the International Highway will be a far greater jump than the Alaska Railroad or the Richardson Highway ever were.

* * *

Trading posts must be established by the United States Government in order that prospecting may go on under the highest measure of safety. Epidemics, such as scurvy, must not be allowed to spread by hosts of men going in that do not understand conditions. Thorough training must be undergone by the hardy adventurers prior to leaving for the gulches in search of gold. Posts, operated by the government, must be located at convenient points for obtaining food and supplies.

New placer fields are being continually reported and the establishment of trading posts must be put through expeditiously. Prizes for discoverers would be a wonderful incentive to the development of the vast country to the north, amply able to provide for six millions. Unemployed youths and men should be encouraged to go into placer mining in Alaska. The government trading posts will give the prospectors credit to tide them over in the first few months in the creeks.

As I said sometime ago, our whole endeavor should be along the lines of producing more gold, and whatever we do in that direction is a grand step in wriggling out of the economic slough in which we have been strugling for several years.

Jackie Overstreet, small son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Overstreet of Bepler street, met with an unfortunate accident Monday of last week.

The boy is still under the care of a doctor, but is said to be progressing nicely.

TRIPLE COLLISION OF AUTOMOBILES CAUSES INJURIES

Woman and Baby Hurt In Three Machine Smash On Junipero Serra

An accident in which three automobiles were involved on the Junipero Serra boulevard near School street, resulted in the injury of Mrs. D. Ferrando and her baby of 532 San Bruno avenue, San Francisco. The accident occurred Sunday night.

The drivers of the cars involved were Miss M. P. Livingstone, 18, of 1432 Lake street, San Francisco, a daughter of David Livingston, a prominent attorney of that city; D. E. Ferrando, husband of the injured woman, and Emory A. Lows, of 50 West Fifth street, Watsonville.

The three machines collided in a heavy fog at about 5:30 Sunday evening.

Neither Mrs. Ferrando nor the child were seriously injured. They were taken to the Villa Sanitarium, where they were treated for cuts and bruises.

No arrests were made, as the accident was said to have been unavoidable.

COUNTY BOARD PASSES ACT FOR MILK CONTROL

Approve Ordinance Making Necessary Pasteurization Within This County

As Monday was celebrated as Armistice Day, the regular weekly meeting of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors was held on Tuesday of this week.

The board adopted an ordinance providing that all milk coming into San Mateo County from outside points must be pasteurized within the county boundaries before being offered for sale locally.

The law was sponsored by a group of local dairymen, who strongly urged its passage before the board.

Heretofore lack of regulations on incoming dairy products has been highly instrumental in tearing down prices in San Mateo county. So-called price wars, dairymen contend, begin among dealers in San Francisco and spread to San Mateo county, indirectly affecting consumers due to inferior products.

Passage of the ordinance was opposed by only one firm, the Borden Dairy Delivery company, which asked that action be delayed for study of the law.

Unemployment projects, including $10,000 for work on the Burlingame high school grounds, were approved by the supervisors. The Burlingame project calls for general improvement of the school football field.

The supervisors also accepted $4,000 from the Bayshore dog track operators to be used for unemployment relief. The check was offered by the track's attorney, Albert Mansfield, and was turned over to the relief committee by the supervisors.

An invitation from A. B. Cargill, publisher of the Advance-Star and chairman of the Kiwanis program, to attend the Kiwanis luncheon in San Mateo, at which Governor Frank F. Merriam spoks, was accepted by the board.

ROYCE SPORTS WIN IN SECOND STRAIGHT GAME

Barbo Sylvestri's twirling was much too good for the Mission batters, as he held them to five scattered hits and pitched magnificently in the pinches.

H. Smith, center fielder, made a sensational catch of a long fly ball and collected four lusty clouts in his five attempts.

Young Roland Petrochi showed some real hitting power by connecting for a towering double against the left field barrier and a slashing triple to the score board.

Tony Marvich continues to set the pace for the swatsmen with twelve hits in fifteen times at bat, for a batting average of 800.

MINING NOTES

A strike has been encountered at the Lloyd Gravel Mine near San Andreas. Charles W. Neilson is the operator of the property.

The mine has been producing steadily during the course of the past six months. It was bonded to Neilsen and associates by the owners, William T. Treat, Judge J. A. Smith, Irving Smith, Arthur G. Jackson, W. H. McLeod and J. O. Gillice, about a year ago.

The Comstock Limited, controlled by the Slosson interests of California, has started vigorous exploration and development of new areas in the Scorpion and Sierra Nevada Mines. Operations are proceeding from the 1,600-foot level of the Union shaft, and a crosscut will be driven from the end of a 1,400-foot tunnel to erplore territory believed to contain important ore deposits.

The mines rank among the oldest on the Comstock Lode and yfelded considerable silver and gold from the upper workings. The new development program is designed to open extension of several veins at depth.

The Kieth Mine, near Lost Creek, Yuba County, is employing twenty-five men, who are preparing the property for the Spring hydraulic season.

Rehabilitation of the noted old Jim Mine has been practically completed by the Jim Consodidated Mines, Powerful equipment, including a Diesel engine and compressor, have been installed and old workings retimbered and placed in shape for mining operations.

First operated in 1865, the Jim was long noted for its yield of rich gold ore. Operations were stopped when the ledge faulted, although developments were never carried below the 200-foot point. The new control plans to deepen the shaft and explore a broad belt of promising ground.

Nearly equalling the total proceeds for the entire year of 1933, Nevada mines produced more than $3,182,892,-67 during the first six months of 1934.

The actual gross proceeds from Nevada mines during the first half of this year is more than the total given above, according to W. D. Atkinson, statistician for the state tax commission, for the reason that many of the small operators have elected to have their gross proceeds certified to on an annual basis instead of semi-annually as before.

Superintendent Otto E. Schiffner of the Lava Cap Mine in Nevada County reports drifting operations, to the north in the Central and south in the Banner shafts, continues in good ore. The mill is treating from 200 to 250 tons of ore daily.

Discovery of a new vein of gold-silver ore in the old Solid Silver mine, northwest of Paradise Valley, is reported by B. A. Goldsworthy and W. T. Quarles, Westwood, mining men. The ledge was found north of the old workings and shows mill ore and some high-grade. The property was acquired last July by the Californians, who found the ore shortly after opening the old tunnel. The mine was formerly noted for its yield of rich silver ore.

* * *

The Yellow Cat Mining Company has taken a two-year bond and lease on the promising Berg group of four claims, located a mile south of Goldfield. A shipment of rich ore was made recently from surface workings, where a strong vein appears to have been uncovered. Buildings are being moved to the ground, and arrangements made to sink a shaft. The company is also developing the Yellow Cat Mine near Goldfield and the Conley property at Ione.

Work has been completed of enlarging the dredge of the Canyon Creek Dredging Company on Canyon Creek, two miles north of Georgetown. This is one of the smallest gold dredges in the world and has been operating since early Spring, 1933, without a shut down. The bucket line has been extended to dig twenty-six feet instead of eighteen. The tailings stacker extended fourteen feet, making it sixty-eight feet. The hull extended eight feet on the bow, and the bow gantry is six feet higher. This dredge handles an average of 50,000 cubic yards of gravel a month, and is on the Blue Rock tailings dump about 400 feet above the mouth of Oregon Canyon. Twelve men are employed.

A rich strike has been made in the Boswell Mine, also known as the Redding Consolidated. The extent of the rich ore is not known here. The mine, owned by Mrs. Christine Stevens of San Francisco, has been leased to Fred Zimmerman of Centerville, near where the mine is located, with option to buy. It is understood that Zimmerman is arranging to sell the mine to Emile Schnee, who makes Redding his headquarters and is interested in mines of the region. New equipment was installed recently at the mine and several new buildings constructed.

That night Berenice and Janet discussed the future over the fire in Berenice's bedroom. They sat there, too conscious of the recent death in the other. They had locked both doors, even secured the windows.

"Do you blame me, Janet, for wanting to marry Wilton at once? After all, what could Mr. Haskell do if I did marry without his consent?"

"What does the will say?"

"Simply that I must have his consent. But, Janet, I don't think my father ever really knew Gordon as we know him—or else he has changed terribly with the years. My father trusted him absolutely. In the event of my death he inherits everything."

"Ah, in the event of your death!"

"Why do you look at me like that, Janet?"

"My dear, I want you to live!"

"Of course! I have everything to live for! Do you feel danger here—"

"No premeditated, plotted danger, perhaps, but something sudden; the outbreak of a smoldering fire. I believe Gordon Haskell would stop at nothing to force you to marry him."

"It is not the day of marriage by capture. What I am fearing is that he will dismiss Mrs. Denver and you and Arthur suddenly as he did Wilton, and I shall be left here with him—and not even Mother Martha to protect me."

"Berenice, when that day comes you'll go with us. There's something savage in Gordon Haskell's nature. I can quite understand why your high-spirited brothers and sisters resented the man."

Berenice laid a hand on Janet's. "Listen—do you hear some one in the passage? I thought I heard some one breathing at the door."

Janet glanced fearfully toward it. "The wind, probably—what is that bit of white?"

Against the dark sill was outlined a tiny white triangle. Janet cautiously drew it from under the crack—a little three-cornered note without address. "Berenice, it must be for you."

"Some one knows our secret"—she passed the note to Janet, who read: "'A tree is not a safe letter box.' Is that Mr. Haskell's printing—you can't call it writing!"

"I can't tell—it's either Balder's or Gordon Haskell's. But how foolish—and how detestable. Janet, I'm sorry! I've tried for years to feel that Haskell was kind and generous and fine—but I never quite reached the point. Sometimes I almost reached it, then he would do or say something to upset my ideals. I'm sorry. I wish we could go at once—but it seems cowardly, too, to run away!"

"We won't go until the situation is desperate."

"No more notes! They've probably read everything—not that I care!"

"No, dear—why should you care? He's wrong—not you."

While this conversation was in progress, Arthur was at his desk in his own room, resigned at last to its curious noises and creakings. His wood stove was glowing hot; and he might have felt a certain cozy contentment had he not been worried over the situation of affairs in the school. That Haskell was preparing a coup seemed quite within the bounds of possibility.

The rustling of his papers sounded very loud in the silence of the room, and he desisted from this attempt to clear his desk, and lit his black pipe. "Poor old Wilton," he thought, "out there on the moors with Jerry, and psychology gone to glory. If he takes my advice he'll steal Berenice and run with his prize to Onteaga—the rest of us after him—wild arms out, eyes popping! Lostland behind us like a nightmare! We might have known when we arrived at that station called Blade that something was wrong. Hear that mouse! I wonder what Mrs. Denver is doing?"

As if in answer to his question there came a knock at the door. It was Mrs. Denver with a lamp in her hand. "He and Balder are quarreling again," she whispered. "I heard their voices. I couldn't tell what they said. I felt afraid."

He took the lamp from her hand. "Don't be frightened. We'll move down the corridor a bit, and if we hear anything violent we can go up to protect the girls."

It was cold and draughty in the halls, and even the runner of carpet was lifted and moved by intermittent gusts. Open doors on black bedrooms added to the gloom. They paused and listened. Far off they heard a peal of diabolic laughter, like a man plunging into the night with a jest, or into a cauldron with a quip.

"What is that shadow on the wall?" Mrs. Denver gasped breathlessly.

"Just the high-backed chair! Listen! Keep very still."

Again the laughter, which Arthur thought the most unpleasant he had ever heard—a black, dancing cadence of notes; imps leaping up and down and pulling faces at appalled eyes. Another sound from another quarter of the building—this time a pounding, a wild beating of fists on a hard substance.

Then the laughter died away—a door slammed. "I wouldn't for all the riches in all the banks go downstairs now. Suppose a hand reached out and dragged you—"

The pounding continued. "Maybe somebody is locked out," she ventured.

"Or locked in. Go to your room, Mrs. Denver—and lock the door. I am going down to investigate."

"I'll go with you. I'd feel safer."

Arthur felt safer himself for her company, and they went cautiously down the main staircase, the lamp casting a circle ahead of them whose edges Mrs. Denver viewed fearfully. In the lower hall they paused.

"That pounding comes from the basement." Her voice was faint.

"Listen!—some one's calling—as if for help."

Muffled imploring sounds reached them. Once they thought they made out the word "Balder."

"Oh, well, there's nothing for it but to go down to the basement."

"These sounds seem to come—from where the figures are!"

She grew white. "Mr. Fleming—you don't think he's—killed!"

"A dead man couldn't make such a racket."

He moved toward the basement stairs and began to descend, his companion close beside him. At the foot they paused. "Yes—it's down that way!"

Some one was pounding on the inside of the door which guarded the figures. As they neared it—a singular spectacle met their eyes. Gordon Haskell's face, over which the blood was running from a cut on his forehead, was framed in the circular inset of glass. His eyes, wild with fright, glared out at them for an instant. Then he shouted: "Let me out of here."

"Where is the key?"

He called directions. Arthur went on to the next room, found the loose brick and the key. Mrs. Denver was close at his heels, very pale, but she said nothing. Arthur unlocked the door and Haskell stepped out panting, growling, wiping the blood from his forehead.

"That brute Balder locked me in here for a practical joke, I suppose. I was looking—for something I dropped here yesterday;—and he slammed the door to. I was helpless. One can only open it from inside—with the key. In my haste—I fell—cut myself. Fleming, will you bring that candle?"

Arthur went into the schoolroom. The candlestick stood on the old desk, imparting to the old place the appearance of a school in which the pupils had been kept too late. Mrs. Denver glanced at the figures apprehensively. The golden heads were bent. How terrible if they should look up, all of them! Haskell, in slipping, had evidently hit his head against the iron leg of a desk, for there was blood on the floor close to the feet of the little waxen Isabel.

He had disappeared when they came out—and they heard his footsteps echoing off toward his own quarters. Arthur and Mrs. Denver looked at each other with mutual inquiries as to the significance of this so-called practical joke.

"He was afraid," she uttered solemnly. "He was nearly dead of fear!"

"Of course! That's why he slipped. He scarcely knew what he was doing!"

"Why did Balder lock him up?"

"To pay him off for something—I suppose."

"Why is he so afraid of the figures?"

"Perhaps he didn't treat the Bracebridge children as he should. They certainly hated him. I think the night will be quiet from now on, Mrs. Denver."

CHAPTER IX

Wilton had not seen anyone from the academy for several days, and he was all the more anxious because the notes in the old tree had ceased. The end of a morning's impatience was the mile walk to the tree through the nipping air.

"I am on a fruitless errand," he muttered. "If there's no note I am going on to the academy. He couldn't do more than shoot me!"

But there was a note and he opened it greedily. It had neither beginning nor ending—only the few lines:

"Meet me Thursday afternoon at three, just above the whirl—on the dangerous side. We're not likely to be followed there."

He went back to tell Jerry that he would be gone all afternoon in case any of his pupils conceived the holiday to be at an end. Jerry, half asleep over the fire, raised himself, viewed his lodger benevolently and nodded again. Wilton went into his bedroom and made ready for a cold afternoon out of doors.

He had to make a long detour around the shores of the lake to reach the entrance to the ravine, but a cart road opened between the pines; and in the heavy silence of the winter landscape he trudged, brushing by evergreen boughs and shaking off their weight of snow in a powdery cloud. He saw the dark waters of the ravine creek between the white banks, and found the path that skirted "the dangerous side" without much difficulty. The wild and lonely gorge was magnificent. Icicles hung from monstrous black boulders; the dark water seemed to be churning up ice-like cream. The air stung as if full of invisible frost needles.

Advances Cosmic Rays Theory

Exploding stars that burn with a fire equal to 100,000,000 suns for six days and then are reduced from a diameter of 500,000 miles to little spheres fourteen miles thick are the cause of cosmic rays, an authority states.

Daytime Is Night Time

Little Joan had heard her older brother discussing the difference in time to be noted between one side of the world and that on the opposite side. Joan was very much impressed and rushed in to her mother and exclaimed excitedly:

"Oh, mother, did you know that in China when it's day time it's night time and when it's night time, it's day time?"—Indianapolis News.

Couldn't Use Nickel

Joan A. of Greencastle was all ready to start for Sunday school and asked her father for a penny for the collection box. Unable to find any pennies in change her father offered her a nickel instead. This was indignantly refused.

"Them don't want nickels," she said hotly, "them only wants pennies!"—Indianapolis News.

The family knew that Junior had something on his mind—that look boys have when they have a serious problem confronting them. Finally it came out.

"Dad, gimme a quarter, will ya?" Junior pleaded.

"What do you want a quarter for?"

"Well, I promised a guy a quarter if he'd lick another kid for me!"

Pattern 9040 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3⅝ yards 36-inch fabric.

OUR NURSERIES HAVE A GRAND OPPORTUNITY

By J. W. MARCHBANK

Neil Newman, writing in The Thoroughbred Record, expresses the opinion that racing in the East is dragging its way to a weary conclusion. At the time of the out burst Narragansett Park had one week to run. November is being used up by Pimlico and Bowie. The well known expert on breeding and racing says:

"There is little to enthuse over in the programs of these associations. Maryland racing is at a low ebb and the dearth of worthwhile horses causes a marked lack of interest on the part of the general public."

All of which is food for thought. Not so long ago Maryland furnished the best sport in the country. Narragansett Park has gained wide publicity on account of the heavy play in the mutuels.

"Dearth of worthwhile horses" is the explanation in a nutshell. The fans will go to the tracks anywhere and support the game if the class of the thoroughbreds is high. "Nickel animals" are a weariness to the flesh.

The way to get the runners that will appeal to the imagination of the people which will give them the thrills they seek is to encourage breeding in such states as California, ideally fitted for the production of the blood horse. As I have pointed out many times, this state once turned out the best of gallopers, and what was done in other years can be done again.

As Walter Vosburgh recently said—to the racing enthusiast the gossip of the stud is quite as interesting as the events of the race course—and the Jockey Club handicapper proceeds to say that if a jury of breeders could be found and the evidence submitted, the verdict would perhaps be that Marion was the greatest of American broodmares. Marion, as is known far and wide, foaled her famous produce, including Emperor of Norfolk, in California and Nevada. Before many days there may be other Marions to bring more luster to the West.

To bring about conditions conducive to the expansion of breeding, racing must be conducted on the most liberal of lines. One move necessary at an early date is the reduction of the commission on pari mutuel pools from twelve per cent to nine per cent. We are lagging behind Florida, in which state the "take" is ten per cent.

OLD HISTORICAL DATA OF THE COLMA VALLEY

Incidents of Pioneer Days and Characters Recalled For Our Readers

LAKE MERCED EXPOSITION

It will be of interest to the readers of these articles, and especially those residing in the Colma Valley and of the entire county of San Mateo, to know that what we have written in advocacy of locating the Golden Gate and San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridges Celebration at Lake Merced has come to the favorable attention of the Lake Merced Exposition Association, 389 Ashton street, San Francisco.

In a letter this week from H. G. Douglass, president of the association, that gentleman expresses the thanks of himself and his co-workers to Old Timer for his interest in the project and valuable suggestions "that has given the association members much encouragement." This letter especially points out that the attitude of the residents to the south of San Francisco will have great influence on the ultimate outcome of this worthy undertaking. Mr. Douglass states that we will hear much about Lake Merced for the fair from now on and that the association is having a discussion on "Rapid Transit" and how it will affect the Peninsula, as well as the Fair at Lake Merced.

There is no doubt but that the location of the Fair at Lake Merced will result in a tremendous expansion of San Francisco and that this expansion will necessarily extend far into San Mateo County, resulting in the development of Thornton Beach, the Palisades and magnificent marine view residential district and advance values far into our county. Therefore, it behooves every official and all public spirited citizens of San Mateo County to get on the job instanter, because such valuable opportunities should be greeted with the utmost enthusiasm.

Everybody knows that there is not another location in the Bay district so advantageous in every respect, not only in cheap transportation from every part of the county, but in perpetual good for all future posterity. For example, see what a wonderful development resulted on the Marina and all that part of San Francisco by the location of the Panama Pacific International Exposition of 1915 on the Marina. The advantages for expansion from Lake Merced are far greater than were they at the Marina. In fact, the great city has no other chance for expansion, so it is of particular importance that they start the good work with an exposition that is sure to attract the interest of the nation, because everybody will want to see the Golden Gate Bridge with its 4200 foot suspension span, that is 900 feet longer than any other bridge span in the world, and the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge and its wonderful methods of convenient approach on both sides of the bay that will be equally marvelous, with no other parallel in the world. It is esseptial that we show the world what it is all about and how San Francisco knows how, and the very best way to do that is to have the grandest exposition the world has ever known—at Laguna de la Merced.

There are numerous reminiscent items that might be written here, but they will keep for another day, so let us all boost and pray for the success of the Lake Merced Exposition Association.

Watch the Speedometer

A tendency of the speedometer to skip or move unevenly is an almost certain sign that it needs attention in the form of lubrication or adjustments, according to L. G. Evans, Director of Roadside Service of the National Automobile Club.

Cleaning Car Top

Top material of a car should never be cleaned with gasoline or kerosene, as they will cause the fabric to crack, according to the emergency road service of the California State Automobile Association.

The best method is to wash the top with soap and water, using plenty of clean water for rinsing.

SOME QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Some Little Known Matters That Should Prove of General Interest

(By Maude Larue Ives)

Question: Where is the "Little Church 'Round the Corner," and why is it called by that title?

Answer: The Church of the Transfiguration, popularly known as the "Little Church 'Round the Corner," received this title in 1871. When Joseph Holland, the famous English actor, died in that year Joseph Jefferson, the eminent American actor, was in charge of the funeral arrangements. He requested the pastor of a church, then located at Madison avenue and Twenty-eighth street, to officiate at the services. The minister refused, stating that his congregation would object to an actor being buried from his church. However, the clergyman told Mr. Jefferson that there was a "little church 'round the corner where they have such funerals."

Mr. Jefferson then said: "All honor to that 'little church 'round the corner.'" Since that time the little church has figured prominently in the religious life of the members of the theatrical profession, and has become known far and wide as the "Little Church 'Round the Corner."

Question: What is significant about Charles Carroll?

Answer: In 1776 he was elected to the Continental Congress from Maryland, and was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. It is an interesting fact in connection with this that he outlived all of the other signers. He always signed himself "Charles Carroll of Carrollton." He was elected as first senator from Maryland under the constitution of the United States and served until 1792. His last public act was performed on July 4, 1828, when he turned the first spadeful of earth in the building of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad—the first passenger railway in the United States.

Question: Where is the Pitto Palace and why has it a historical significance?

Answer: It is a royal palace located in Florence, Italy. Its erection was begun in 1440 after designs by Brunelleschi. This architect died at a time when only the first story had been built. The remaining two stories were not added until more than a century later. The original designs were lost and new ones were drawn. Despite the change of plan, this building ranks as one of the most imposing in the world. Next to the Vatican, it is the largest palace in Italy and its situation on the left-bank of the Arno River adds to its effectiveness. It was originally built for the Pitto family, whose head was chief magistrate of the republic of Florence for a long period.

This palace is noteworthy for its rare collection of paintings, one of the finest in the world, containing works by Raphael, Titian, Andrea del Sarto, Rubens, Rembrandt and other famous artists. The gallery is open to the public.

* * *

Question: What is the name of the highest peak in Great Britain?

Answer. It is called Ben. Nevis, meaning "mountain of snow," and is derived from the fact that snow lies in the gorges throughout the year. It rises 4406 feet above sea level, at the south end of the Caledonian Canal, in Inverness, and at its summit on clear days practiced observers can see nearly to the North Sea, a hundred miles distant.

Question: What great epic poem was written by the blind poet, John Milton?

Answer: "Paradise Lost."

Question: What country produces the largest amount of tin?

Answer: The Federated Malay States.

MOTOR REGISTRATION IN HUMBOLDT COUNTY

Registration of motor vehicles in Humboldt County for the first six months of this year reached a total of 14,048, reports the California State Automobile Association.

This figure comprised various classes of vehicles, including 12,652 private passenger automobiles; 891 motor trucks; 461 trailers; and 44 motorcycles.

Sudden Braking

Sudden application of brakes or sudden use of power both tend to cause tires to become worn in spots, according to the emergency road service of the California State Automobile Association.

UNNECESSARY HURRY CAUSE OF ACCIDENTS

If thirty minutes are required for driving between home and the job during summer months, why not make it forty-five minutes in winter?

This additional time for the trip will pay dividends both in safety and calmer nerves, worth far more in most cases than the few minutes to be gained by hurrying, observes a statement by the public safety department of the California Automobile Association.

Particularly in the winter season is needless haste by motorists a prolific cause of traffic accidents, the statement continues.

Streets may be wet and slippery and the weather is often cold, making handling of the car more difficult and tempting pedestrians to plunge into traffic regardless of the dangers.

Combined with the spirit of haste on the part of motorists and pedestrians alike, winter traffic conditions claim a heavy toll in accidents, deaths, and injuries, statistics show. This record could be materially reduced, the motorists organization declares, if a greater margin of time were deliberately allotted by drivers to their winter travel schedules.

When Starter Fails

When the starting motor fails to operate the first thing to do is to test the condiion of the storage battery, according to the emergency road service of the California State Automobile Association.

A simple test of the battery is to turn on the lights and try the starter. If the lights do not dim the battery is probably charged and is not the source of trouble.

Next, test for open circuit at the starter switch and starting motor terminals. Look for glazed commutator. See if brushes are bearing properly on the commutator. These checks assume, of course, that the trouble is not caused by starter gear and flywheel gear becoming jammed.

COLUMN OF N. R. A. FACTS

INFORMATION regarding the N. R. A. will be furnished each week by W. H. CLAY, Chairman of the local N. R. A. Publicity Committee.

The most favorable balance of trade experienced by the United States in several years is announced by the Department of Commerce, in its first semi-annual survey on the international balance of payments. For the first six months of 1934, there wan an inflow of $920,000,000 in gold and $30,000,000 in paper currency, while our exports exceeded our imports by $173,000,000.

The automobile industry continues to blaze the trail toward economic recovery, according to Dun and Bradstreet, which reports that manufacturers are facing the future with undiminished confidence, as evidenced by their proposed expenditures of more than $20,000,000 for expansion and improvement. In nearly all parts of the country, automobile registrations have shown an increase each month since January over the comparative monthly figures of the three years preceding. For the first six months of 1934, production increased 73.1 per cent over the 1933 period, and 96.7 per cent over the 1932 period.

Preliminary reports from current surveys of business conditions indicate that October trade operations will prove the most satisfactory recorded since spring. The New York Times Weekly Business Index moved up to 75.9 for the week ended October 20, marking the fifth consecutive advance. Automobile production showed the largest gain, rising to 58.4, compared with 42.6 the previous week Electric power production, freight loadings and coton cloth production also registered increases, while steel mill activity and lumber production declined slightly.

After four successive increases, which carried the total a week earlier above that of 1933 for the first time this year, business failures for the week ended October 18 fell off substantially. The number of failures was reduced to 214, compared with 282 for the same week last year. Dun's Insolvency Index throughout 1934 has been unusually low. The average for the first nine months of this year was 63.5, compared with 114,1 for the same period in 1933. for the half of October, issued by the

A survey of department store sales National Retail Dry Goods Association, indicates a rise of 8 per cent in dollar value and 6.75 per cent in unit sales compared with this fortnight a year ago. The survey covers seventyfive representative cities. Increases ranged from 1 per cent in Springfield, Illinois, to 43 per cent in Miami, with the greatest gains appearing in the South, Southwestern and Pacific Coast regions.

The marked rise in farmer purchasing power as reflected in the much greater than seasonal increase in sales of general merchandise in small town and rural areas in September. Sales increased 44 per cent over August, to a level which was 33 per cent higher than last year and almost 66 per cent higher than in 1932.

Contracts for alterations and additions to all classes of structures have doubled volume this year as compared with 1933, according to Thomas S. Holden, vice president of the F. W. Dodge Corporation. The largest single item in this year's record was $56,213,800 for commercial building improvements, a 69 per cent increase for this class of work over the corresponding period of last year. Alterations and improvements for residential structures amounted to $45,997,100, a 36 per cent increase over last year.

Cigarette output for September reached a five year high for the month—a total of 10,294,498,803 cigarettes. The production aggregate for the first nine months of 1934 sets an all-time record, being 9.10 per cent higher than for the 1933 period and 4 per cent higher than its nearest competitor—the first nine months of 1930.

Sales so far indicate that all records for installation of modern household laundry equipment will be broken this year, according to J. R. Bohnen, secretary of the American Washing Machine Manufacturers Association. A 25 per cent increase over any previous period is expected by the industry in the sale of washing machines, and an even greater gain in the sale of ironers.

According to a survey just completed by Dun and Bradstreet, the furniture industry has gained enough ground in the past year to establish the most normal trading basis that has been achieved since 1929. Sales totals in August exceeded the 1933 figures, with small retailers making a better showing than the department stores and large establishments. In some sections of the Middle West, South, Southwest and Pacific Coast, many retailers with an annual volume under $500,000 doubled their figures of August, 1933, while increases of 25 per cent to 50 per cent were general. The widening of the demand since mid-September, according to the report, gives evidence of making the last quarter of 1934 the best experienced in several years.

The Association of Life Insurance Presidents has announced that total volume of new life insrance production, for the first eight months of 1934, showed an increase of 12.8 per cent over same period of 1933.

Publishers' gross revenues from national advertising in the first nine months of 1934 were about 23 per cent larger than in the comparable 1933 period.

Although September sales dropped off 8 per cent from those of 1933, a large electric manufacturing company reported profits for the nine months ended September, 1934, totalling $13,645,000, a rise of 54.8 per cent over the 1933 period.

A business equipment company reported the largest volume of sales for September since 1930, with profits up 90 per cent over the same month of last year. A cash register company showed a profit for the first nine months of 1934, of over a million dollars; last year this company reported a deficit of $841,000.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK

Millions In Back Pay Restored: Since its creation on October 26, 1933, the Compliance Division of NRA has been instrumental in restoring approximately $2,000,000 in back wages to many thousands of workers under NRA codes. This sum represents the difference between the wages actually paid to workers and the amounts they should have received under applicable code provisions. In addition to this figure, sixteen Code Authorities report that up to September 29 of this year they had effected wage restitutions amounting to $523,119.59, paid to approximately 70,000 employees.

Report On Trade Practice Complaints: Between November 18, 1933, and September 29, 1934, NRA field offices received 21,600 trade practice complaints. Sixty per cent of these complaints, or 13,105, were adjusted in the field by obtaining certificates of compliance or by finding that no violation existed. Only 3153 of the remaining 8495 cases were still in the field offices, unadjusted at the end of September. The other 5342 cases have either been referred to approved trade practice complaints committees in various industries or forwarded to Washington for adjustment by national NRA headquarters.

Auto Dealers Vote Code Continuance: Early returns from a nationwide poll of America's 28,450 automobile dealers indicate that 77 per cent are in favor of continuing to operate under their code. By October 25. almost 15,000 replies had been received to the question: "Are you in favor of the Motor Vehicle Code provided it can be fully enforced?" 11,522 dealers answered "yes" The tabulation was conducted by J. B. Hulett. New York District Commissioner for the Motor Vehicle Retailing Code.

Homework Prohibited In The Manufacturing Code: NRA has approved several amendments to the code for this industry, providing among other things for the prohibition of homework after January 1. 1934. Meanwhile, the Code Authority was authorized to prepare at once a homework rate schedule equal at least to the code's minimum wage rate and to be effective between November 1. and January 1. Other changes include a prohibition against inequitable restriction on membership in any participating trade association; a setup for co-ordinating the code's trade practice provisions with other codes; an arrangement for assessing industry members for code support, and several additional safeguards for labor.

Thirty Six Hour Week For Cotton Garment Industry: President Roosevelt has signed an Executive Order reducing the forty hour work week in the cotton garment manufacturing industry to thirty six hours, effective December 1. Weekly wages will be kept at the present total and piece rates will be increased by 10 per cent. This action was taken on the recommendation of an impartial committee which had been appointed under an agreement with the industry that its findings would be accepted as final. In making its decision, the committee pointed out that this step was especially desirable in view of the fact that competing industries, such as the dress and men's clothing manufacturing industries, are already on the thirty six hour week with generally higher wage scales.

New Code For Builders Supplies Trade: Superseding the code which has been in operation since October 1933, a new code has been approved for this trade, effective November 4, The changes made amount to rewriting the code to conform with NRA policies eveolved from the experience of more than a year of code administration. The new code provides for the set up of co-ordination boards to adjust complaints of overlapping between this and other codes. A provision for a liquidated damages agreement is also included, under which members of the trade may agree to pay certain predetermined amounts into the Code Authority treasury if permission for NRA to establish minimum prices if it finds that an emergency exists are substituted for the system of modal mark ups previously provided.

Eleven Thousand Workers Brought Under Code: The President has approved a code of fair competition for the bituminous road material dittributing industry, effective November 25. This brings approximately 11,000 additional workers under the protection of code labor provisions. A basic thirty two hour week is established, with a minimum wage rate of 40 cents an hour in the occupations. Secret rebates, defamation, misbranding, misrepresentation, commercial bribery and lump sum bidding are defined as unfair trade practices. Open price filing is provided and wilfully destructive price cutting prohibited.

Shorter Learning Periods: An amendment approved October 19 for the coat and suit code shortens the learning periods for apprentices and fixes slightly higher wage rates for them. Apprentice cutters are to be paid $22 a week for the first four weeks, $23 for the second four weeks and $25 for the third four weeks, and thereafter at the minimum wage fixed for their craft. This replaces the previous provision of a weekly wage rate of $22 for six months. Apprentices employed in the jacket, coat, reefers, dress, pressers and finishers crafts, who have been receiving a minimum of 60 cents an hour for the first four weeks, 65 cents for the second four weeks, 75 cents for the third four weeks, and full minimum wages after completion of their learning periods.

Theater Code Amended: The amended code for the Legitimate Theatrical Industry, approved last week, increases many minimum wages, especially in the lower brackets, provides a maximum work week of forty hours for practically all employees, including performers during rehearsal periods, and establishes provisions regulating the sale of theater tickets. Among other things, no agency is allowed to charge more than 75 cents in excess of the regular box office price. Each producer must keep 25 per cent of his tickets in the box office for public sale. A special committee was appointed to study the operation and effect of the ticket provisions and to report within sixty days to the National Industrial Recovery Board. The twelve voting members of the Code Authority are to be equally divided between employers and employees.

New Appointments: The National Industrial Recovery Board last week appointed Richard H. Lansburg, one time Secretary of Labor of Pennsylvania, as associate director of the division of research and planning. It has also named Dr. Willard L. Thorp as associate economic adviser to the board. Dr. Thorp will serve as representative of Research and Planning Division and chairman of the reorganized Advisory Council set up by the board to review all matters that are not of a routine character before they are presented to the Board.

Earl Whitten, 11, of Chacago, received a reward of $2,500 for finding and returning a lost pearl necklace valued at $25,000.

RED CROSS AGENCIES SAFEGUARD HEALTH

First Aid, Life Saving, Nursing Care, Promote Health and Safety

Five outstanding services make up the health-conservation program of the American Red Cross, according to the annual report just issued in Washington. These services are first aid and life saving, which together have trained more than a million persons; nursing, with an active enrollment of 36,133 registered nurses; Public Health Nursing, conducted by 750 nurses in 424 chapters last year; and Home Hygiene, which has taught more than 700,000 men and women simple ways of caring for the sick at home.

"The achievements of the Red Cross in public health nursing place it among the leaders in this field," said James L. Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations. "This service was organized in 1919 to meet needs developed by the World War and the ravages of the flu epidemic which in 1918-1919 took so great a toll of life.

"Since that time Red Cross nursing services have been pioneers in more than one half of the counties in the United State. Many services we established were taken over later by civic, state and federal agencies, and the Red Cross continues to establish services in other new fields. Red Cross nurses made more than a million visits to patients last year, and 629,025 children in schools were inspected.

"Red Cross courses in home hygiene and care of the sick are especially important in times of depression, because they teach families to maintain hygienic conditions in their own homes and to recognize symptoms of illness early enough to prevent serious consequences.

"Our courses in first aid have been instrumental in saving lives of the injured; in safeguarding the accident victim until the physician arrives, and in reducing time lost by workers in factories, mines and other industries. We are also giving the course extensively to police and fire departments throughout the country, and to state highway patrols."

Everyone is invited to join the Red Cross during the annual membership roll call which continues from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving, to have a part in the health program and the other humanitarian services of the Red Cross.

An Army of Goodwill

When members of the Junior Red Cross learned that schoolbooks had been destroyed in the Kentucky floods last August they gave $100 from the National Children's Fund to buy new textbooks for use in the schools. The maximum membership for the Junior Red Cross last year was 7,350,280, an increase over the previous year of more than 250,000. They carry on civic and service programs in their own communities which each year bring comfort and pleasure to thousands of needy and unfortunate people. An international friendship is built up through correspondence with Junior Red Cross members in foreign countries.

To Teach Water Safety

Life saving services offering training in first aid methods for swimmers have been carried on by the Red Cross for two decades. In 20 years, life saving certificates have been awarded to more than a half million people who are interested in water sports. Last year chapters issued 72,503 life saving certificates.

The Red Cross enrolled 3,802,384 members in last year's roll call. Join in the 1934 roll call—Armistice Day to Thanksgiving.

BETTER HOUSING FEDERAL CAMPAIGN

Participation of SERA workers in the Better Housing Campaign requested by the Federal Government in connection with the Federal Housing Act of 1934 has been provided in California by the approval of thirty projects for this activity, according to a report from SERA headquarters recently.

The projects provide for a personnel of 3217 workers at an expenditure of $487,306 for wages.

The work consists of interviewing property owners for the purpose of explaining and promoing the functions of the Federal Housing Act. Most of the projects are already operating and SERA workers are doing their part in this big drive for the stimulation of business by the improvement of privately owned property throughout the state.

VOLCANOES IN ACTION

The volcanoes which erupted recently in the state of Vera Cruz, Mex., and in Alaska, are in that belt of volcanic activity which engirdles intermittently the huge basin of the Pacific ocean. This ring of volcanoes may be traced, on this side of the Pacific, from Cape Horn to Alaska, while on the other sides the cones are found in Japan, the East Indies, New Zealand, and other islands.

In South America, the Andes are studded with volcanoes, some of which are among the loftiest in the world. In April, 1932, a number of volcanoes roared into activity, terrifying inhabitants for 400 miles and sending dust as far away as New Zealand, 6,000 miles distant. Descabezado, Chico and Planchon in the Andes erupted again in July, and last January Llaima, in southern Chile, poured smoke six miles in the air.

Queen's Rare China

One of the smartest apartments at Buckingham palace, London which is sometimes shown by the queen for her friends, is the china room, where the walls are lined with plates, dishes, cups and saucers from the many rare and antique porcelain services in the possession of the king and queen. These are arranged in panel formation in cases which can be unlocked for periodical washing. The value of this china is so great that the experts are locked in the china room when washing the pieces. —Philadelphia Enquirer.

Fur-Trimmed Short-Jacketed Suit

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IN THE game of late fall and early winter fashion about the most high-stylish play one can make is to stake all on a handsome short-jacketed suit, hiplength to be explicit, which is lavishly trimmed with luxurious fur. As an after thought add more than one fetching blouse. Begin with a blouse of tinsel knit, then a plaid velvet or taffeta and so on, leading up to a sumptuous tunic of glittering lame.

It is a question which is more exciting in point of novelty and elegance, the materials which go to make up these dramatic suits or the furs which adorn them. The new tweeds which fashion as many of the smartest suits are a treat to the eye both in the matter of color and novel weave.

However, all is not tweed that is tailored, for broadcloth is "in" this season and best-dressed women are ordering their suits made of handsome duvetyne in rich vibrant reds or greens or browns. Indeed than duvetyne we know of no smarter material for the new jacket suits, that is, unless you choose velvet.

As to interpreting the glories of velvet suits as "now is" in the style parade the most extravagant adjectives fall short of doing the theme justice. The best we can do is to call your attention to the fetching velvet costume centered in the illustration and let you judge for yourself as to what heights of glory this season's velvet suit fashions are being carried. A very choice grade of black velvet was selected for this formal afternoon suit. The sleeves are intriguingly worked with tucks to give them fullness at the elbow. The belt and pocket are decorated with gold-metal discs and the blouse is of red and gold lame. A flattering silver fox collar with a huge matching muff add "class" to this outfit de luxe. By the way we are going to see more muffs during the next few months than we have seen for winters and winters past.

The smart town suit to the left radiates that feeling of quiet elegance which bespeaks refinement and good taste. The brown striped woolen of which it is tailored is a more than ordinary weave. The effective styling of the generous mink collar is noteworthy in that it emphasizes the vogue which calls for clever rever treatments. This accent on designful revers is very noticeable throughout the fall and winter mode. The blouse worn with this suit is chartreuse crepe patterned with a gold threading.

The interesting note to carry in mind in regard to the suit to the right is that the jacket tops a one-piece dress—an excellent idea for winter warmth as well as costume chic. The jacket-and-dress suit is a favorite theme with designers. Very often the scheme is carried out in two woolens such as plaid for the dress with duvetyn or velveteen in a solid color for the jacket, the plaid repeated in the jacket lining. Nutria fur trims the light oxford wool suit in the picture. Fashion reports from Paris all stress the importance of nutria trimming and other similar furs. Another outstanding fashion is the black woolen suit which is trimmed in white ermine, galyak or breitschwantz.

WINTER GLOVE-MUFF BECOMES ACROBATIC

The winter glove-muff is becoming almost acrobatic. With wide and high cuffs reaching to the elbow, they look like coat sleeves, as they are intended to look, and when folded back over the hands and snapped together to form the muff, they in no way detract from the sleeve arrangement of the coat.

So wide is the cuff and so cleverly is the glove attached to it that the whole thing can also be worn as a hat. The hand of the glove is turned inside and lies flat across the top of the head, while the cuff—either of fur or fabric—forms the hat that is crushed into shape and held in place with a pin, feather, flower or button.

Milliners Are Awaiting New Trimmings for Hats

Hat trimmings have not said their last word and all the new millinery collections are reserving a very important place for them. There is a supple black felt toque, the front part of which is turned down as a brim and gathered in a draped effect against the crown, where it is held by a motif in red plastic material and metal, which is pinned through the felt.

Also, there is a cloche in grenat felt, entirely covered with rayon stitches in a lighter shade and in checked design. The crown is fastened at the back from the top of the head down to the hat band with black plastic buttons in half-conic shape.

Alluring Black Stockings to Be Popular for Winter

Deeper shades of hosiery are expected to be popular this winter, partly as a result of the revival of black hose. An off-black or mascara shade is outselling black, dealers report, and equally popular is a deep brown, called mahogany, which looks well with either black or brown attire. Hose for evening wear are darker than last winter, a beige-like suntan being preferred to the natural skin tone.

DOLMAN SLEEVES

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Many of the newest coats have dolman sleeves. The model pictured sets forth the attractiveness of this new silhouette which features big sleeves in fine shape. It is interesting to know that the taffeta frock worn underneath is in a rich red which matches the color of the handsome wool cloaking used for the dolman wrap. Luxurious blue fox trims collar and sleeves.

TRUE DETECTIVE STORY

by Vance Wynn © Public Ledger

The Quebec Mystery

ONE morning in the spring of the year, Mrs. Caroline Poirier, of St. Canute, in the Province of Quebec, roused one of her neighbors and said with much agitation that she was unable to get into her home or rouse her husband.

She had been spending the night with a friend nearby, and said that her husband, who had been working on the repairs to a church at St. Jerome, nine miles distant, was expected home some time the previous evening.

The police were summoned, the door broken in and the husband found lying on the floor dead.

His body bore three knife wounds, and it was quite evident that there had been a life-and-death struggle.

But beyond the disordered appearance of the room there were no clues to indicate who the culprit might have been.

The strange part of it was that nothing had been taken from the house, so that the murder could not have been for the purpose of theft.

Mrs. Poirier was naturally distracted, and went about the work of settling up the estate like a woman in a trance.

The man, who had led a dissipated life, died practically penniless, but he did leave an insurance policy of $2,000 in favor of his wife.

Isidore Poirier had been a contractor and builder in a small way, and he had married Cordelia Viau, the handsome daughter of a farmer, after a whirlwind wooing.

They had no children, but for some years after their marriage they lived very happily.

At the end of that time the woman seems to have conceived an aversion for her husband.

The reason for this, according to one of the commentators on the affair, is that she was a masterful woman and he was a man of "very common mold."

The gossips had it that she was enamored of another man, one Samuel Parslow, a carpenter who worked for her husband.

At all events they were seen together very much, and he paid her marked attention.

Indeed, on the night when the murder had occurred the two were together.

But that in itself did not necessarily connect either of them with the crime.

Mrs. Poirier was the organist of the village church, while Parslow was a member of the choir.

That fact might well have explained their frequent meetings.

In the meantime, the authorities were working hard to trace the movements of the dead man prior to the murder.

It was ascertained that he had been working that very day at St. Jerome.

The people of the village informed them that he had left there in a carriage, saying that he was going home.

Other persons living on the road between the two towns testified that they had seen him pass with the team.

One of them said that a woman accompanied him.

Unfortunately, this person was not able to give a very good description of the woman.

At this stage of the investigation the agent of the insurance company which had insured the victim appeared to say that Mrs. Poirier had personally taken out the insurance, had carried on all of the correspondence, and was particularly anxious at the time to be sure that she would get the money, no matter what might have been the cause of death.

The authorities determined to take the bull by the horns, and both Mrs. Poirier and Parslow were arrested. They were placed in different cells, and each told a story that conflicted with the other.

The evidence was circumstantial, but it was shown that the woman had gone to St. Jerome and had brought her husband home on the night the tragedy was supposed to have occurred.

Both were found guilty, and sentence of death was at once pronounced.

In spite of the fact that the woman had been shown in anything but a favorable light petitions were numerously signed and presented to the governor general urging him to show clemency to the female convict.

He declined to interfere, saying that the law must be permitted to take its course.

When the noose was prepared Samuel Parslow was so limp that he had to be literally carried to the platform.

Not so the masterful woman.

She walked up the steps with a firm tread, and as she reached the executioner, exclaimed:

"Be quick; that is all I ask."

Air's Composition

The colorless gas which we call the air or atmosphere is a mixture of several gases, about 77.08 per cent being nitrogen, 20.75 per cent oxygen, 0.95 per cent argon, 0.003 per cent carbonic acid gas, 0.001 per cent hydrogen and water vapor, averaging 1.20 per cent. It also contains minute quantities of the rare gases, helium, krypton, neon, niton and xenon. A cubic foot of air under average conditions weighs about .08 pound, or an ounce and a quarter.

United States Leads With Big Telescopes

Work is now in progress at Newcastle on a new 36-inch telescope for Greenwich observatory.

This telescope, it is stated, will be the biggest in use in Britain, but it is much smaller than some of those elsewhere.

In this respect North America leads the world. With the completion recently of the new 69-inch telescope for the Perkins observatory in Delaware, it now has the world's three largest telescopes.

The biggest of all is the 100-inch instrument at the Mount Wilson observatory in California, and the second biggest is 72 inches at the Dominion Astronomical observatory, Victoria, B. C., Canada.

Britain had the earliest of the really big telescopes, a 60-inch specimen, made in 1842. It has now been dismounted, and is at the Science museum at Kensington. It is unlikely that England will have any more telescopes of this size—climatic conditions aren't good enough to justify the expense of making them for a British observatory.—London Answers.

With Due Respect

He was a Chinese, and had been invited to dine at little Cuthbert's home.

His mother was anxious that their guest should not be made uncomfortable by the boy's curiosity, so she took him aside and explained all about the yellow skin and almond eyes of the Mongolians; she even showed him pictures of Chinese. More than anything else she impressed upon Cuthbert that the visitor was his father's friend, and to be treated with every respect.

When the celestial arrived, Cuthbert tried hard not to stare or look curious, but at last he cried: "I say, mummy, if he wasn't our friend, wouldn't he be a funny looking man?"

Why Liquid Laxatives are Back in Favor

The public is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that the right dose of a properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a more natural movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. A child is easily given the right dose. And mild liquid laxatives do not irritate the kidneys.

Doctors are generally agreed that senna is a natural laxative. It does not drain the system like the cathartics that leave you so thirsty. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a liquid laxative which relies on senna for its laxative action. It gently helps the average person's constipated bowels until nature restores their regularity.

You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store, ready for use.

Idling Harms Motor

Allowing the motor to idle for any length of time usually causes carbon deposits to accumulate in the cylinders and increases dilution of oil in the crankcase, according to the Emergency Road Service of the California State Automobile Assocition.

Care Of Strainers

Oil and gasoline lines usually are fitted with strainers to insure removal of solid matter.

These strainers should be removed and cleaned at least once each season, according to the emergency road service of the California State Automobile Association.

DUNDEE MINE IS RETURNED TO PRODUCING LIST

Important Sulphide Body Has Already Yielded Considerable Ore

The following interesting article is from the pen of Sidney Norman in a recent issue of the Vancouver Sun:

Among the promising properties that have recently been re-opened in the Ymir camp, elson district, is the Dundee mine, now under operation by Ymir Dundee Gold Mining Co., organized by Nelson interests, led by Bert Sharp, M. E., a widely known mining engineer, with experience covering many parts of the West.

The property was among the first to be developed in the very early days of the district and for many years was owned by English capital represented by the late A. E. Rand, of New Westminister, under the corporate name of Dundee Gold Mine Co., Ltd., with capital of $625,000.

At a cost of nearly $100,000 a crosscut, 1800 feet in length, was driven to the vein and 1000 feet upon it without developing ore that could be classed as commercial under existing conditions.

Near Yankee Girl

The Dundee vein is in a parallel zone to that in which the Yankee Girl mine has been developed, the group, consisting of five claims, lying southeast from the Yankee Girl group and at a lower elevation.

The main Dundee tunnel is approximately 400 feet lower than the lowest level of Yankee Girl, known as the 1235, and 1100 feet below the surface outcrop of the vein on its dip, or 974 feet vertically.

On the surface the vein has been exposed over a length of 500 feet and at a point where one of the best showings was encountered, an incline shaft was sunk for a depth of 260 feet with laterals at the 100 and 250 foot levels.

The zone, which trends N. 55 degrees east, passes through 3000 feet of the Old Bill and Parker claims of Dundee and then into the Yukon Fraction of Yankee Girl group.

Stock Optioned

The trend carries it 150 feet through Yukon Fraction and thence into Dundee ground for another 600 feet in the Annie Fraction claim.

At this time the face of the deep Dundee level is approximately 500 feet this side of the point where the vein is northwesterly, toward Yankee Girl.

The company is capitalized at 2,500,000 shares of 50c par, with 100,000,000 shares in escrow as payment for property. It is understood that a large party of the treasury stock is now under option to a well-known promoter, who is already heavily interested in the immediate vicinity.

Under the option, a substantial payment is due November 1, with subsequent payments so arranged as to provide for mill installation next spring and completion of financing by September, 1935.

14 Feet Wide

Referring to Norman's Mines Handbook, published in 1918, information received from Mr. Rand, who was a director of the company, placed the vein width at 14 feet, of which 10 feet was said to run about $8.50 gold per ton.

For many years the mine lay idle, but this spring title passed to the present company and work was commenced by pushing the long drift ahead. It met with immediate success and so far 80 feet passed through a shoot of heavy sulphide ore, 4½ feet wide, averaging .4 oz. gold, 2 ozs. silver, 3.5 per cent lead and 4.5 per cent zinc.

A stope was started upon this shoot and when the mine was visited on September 29, was up 50 feet above the level. Six cars of ore averaging 40 tons each, had already been shipped to smelter with values as given above.

The development has now reached the stage where milling facilities are needed and financing to that end is being negotiated.

COMPTROLLER COMMENDS INSTITUTE OF BANKING

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The American Institute of Banking, said to be the most successful project of its kind in the field of applied adult education, has performed a valuable function in training bank clerks for "sound public service as well as personal success," J. F. T. O'Connor, Comptroller of the Currency of the United States, said here in a recent radio address. The institute is a section of the American Bankers Association.

"While imparting useful knowledge, it has improved the morale of banking personnel and has stimulated in its members an intelligent interest in national and international monetary problems," Mr. O'Connor said. "Its courses cover a wide field in banking. Among the subjects, one finds Bank Organization and Operation, Commercial Law, Negotiable Instruments Law, and Economics, in the Pre-Standard Division; followed by such subjects as Money and Banking, Credit Management, Financial Statement Analysis and Bank Management, in the Standard Division.

"Each and every subject is one which is necessary to a knowledge of banking. However, the institute does not stop here, but encourages graduate study in Corporation Finance, Trust Service, Farm Credit Administration and Business Forecasting. Again it emphasizes in special courses the importance of the less technical but highly beneficial study of Constructive Customer Relations, Banking Fundamentals and Public Speaking. No comment is necessary on these courses: their value is at once apparent."

By ROBERT V. FLEMING
Vice President American Bankers Association

BANKERS recognize that changing conditions require new methods of doing business. However it is their responsibility to retain those essential and sound financial principles upon which this country was founded and has grown to be what is still the richest nation in the world.

R. V. FLEMING

Many of our difficulties have arisen from lack of confidence and from misunderstanding. Therefore it behooves the banker to bend every effort to create a better public understanding of sound banking and thereby bring about that united effort and cooperative spirit which will hasten the day of national recovery and restore to the banker the confidence of the public to which he is entitled.

As an approach to the realization of this ideal, bankers should carefully scrutinize every application for a loan to see if it is bankable and, if it is not in bankable form, then make further examination to see if the loan can be made so, in order that the uses of credit may be stimulated.

Explaining Loan Factors to Customers

We must not expect our customers to be bankers and understand all the factors which we must consider before granting a loan. If we find that a loan is not, and cannot be made, bankable, then I think we should take pains to explain to the applicant the reasons why it cannot be granted.

There are other measures which I think it important for the banker to undertake in order to eliminate the misunderstandings which have arisen and overcome the sentiment which exists. Under present conditions we have to operate under many laws and regulations, and also watch what further legislation is being proposed which affects our methods of operation and may not be in the best interest of the communities we serve. Nowadays it seems at times we must sit with a law book in one hand and a book of regulations in the other in order to make certain we are discharging our daily duties and functioning strictly in accordance with the law. All of this is very trying, yet I think in the end we shall become better bankers.

I believe it is the duty of every banker today to endeavor to understand the public he serves. In addition to his daily duties, trying as they are, he should participate in the activities of his community, so that, with the fund of information available to him, he may be as helpful as possible in all public and civic matters.

Bargain Rate Electricity
1/2 OFF
ON ALL EXTRA ELECTRICITY used in the home and for commercial lighting thruout the P. G. & E. System
* * *
For a 12 months period beginning after the December, 1934, meter reading, the amount of money by which your bill for any one month at same location exceeds your bill for the corresponding month a year back will be discounted 50%.

Talk about bargains—more for your money. Read this message. You'll see that it is going to pay you for a WHOLE YEAR to take advantage of this Bargain Offer.

Think of the times you have used broom and dust pan. You thought to economize. You let the vacuum cleaner stand idle. But that will hardly pay now. A vacuum cleaner on our regular rate works NINE hours for only FIVE cents. Now, beginning in December, you can have NINE EXTRA hours of vacuum cleaning each month over the corresponding months of last year for 2½ cents. Your vacuum cleaner sweeps so much better—so much easier. Make it do EXTRA work at half cost.

Then, too, there is hardly a home but what needs better lighting. EXTRA light, by putting new bulbs into empty sockets, by using more lamps, will mean easier reading, more comfort, more cheerful rooms and protection to the eyes.

Plan electric meals that will put idle appliances to work, such as waffle iron, coffee urn, toaster, grill, etc. Make these appliances give you EXTRA service with Extra Electricity at half price. You see it is not a matter of more appliances; just use your appliances more.

To families who are modernizing their homes this ½ Off EXTRA Electricity is an exceptionally attractive bargain offer. You may install an electric range and water heater to qualify for the rate with a low block of one cent per kilowatt hour. With ½ Off Electricity you can operate the range and water heater for as low as ½ cent per kilowatt hour.

Or you may install an electric refrigerator that would normally cost $1.50 a month to operate. With EXTRA Electricity you cut that normal operating cost in half or to seventy-five cents a month. ½ Off on EXTRA Electricity is certainly cheap Electricity.

'ROMANCE IN RAIN' WEDDING BY RADIO

One of the most unusual and spectacular wedding ceremonies may be seen in Universal's romantic comedy, "Romance in the Rain," now at the Daly City Theater. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, November 20, 21 and 22.

Imagine a public wedding, the culmination of a nation-wide popularity contest, staged in one of the largest stadiums in the country, before 100,000 people! Imagine, also,if you will, such a ceremony broadcast over the radio to millions of people. And imagine, finally, the bride not showing up at the last minute!

The wedding goes ahead, but not with the original bride and groom! This is one of the most hilarious pictures of the season, featuring Roger

ROGER PRYOR and HEATHER ANGEL in "ROMANCE IN THE RAIN"

Pryor, Heather Angel, Victor Moore and Esther Ralston.

Miss Angel is the hapless bride that is whisked away just before the ceremony and Esther Ralston and Victor Moore take her place in one of the funniest scenes ever depicted on the screen.

There have been weddings under the most unusual circumstances, in trains, on boats, airplanes, atop skyscrapers and everywhere else, but never before such a lopsided, lunatic ceremonial as in "Romance in the Rain."

STAMPED SLIP IS NEEDED FOR NEW LICENSE RENEWAL

"No tax clearance — no license plates."

This fact, due to a new state law, canfronts California mator car owners as the license renewal period for 1935 approaches.

A summary issed by the California State Automobile Association concerning registration renewal requirements emphasizes that motorists cannot secure their 1935 license plates unless a personal property tax clearance is stamped or imprinted on the back of the white slip certificate of car registration.

The renewal period opens January 2. Under the law the Department of Motor Vehicles or any agency issuing license plates cannot accept a tax receipt or any evidence of tax payment other than the clearance stamp on the white slip.

On the back of the white slip is a form with three columns for the tax clearance stamps of assessors. How the certificate must be stamped depends upon whether the car ownr lives where there is both a city and county assessor or where there is only a county assessor handling the work.

Car owners who have declared their personal property tax as a lien on real estate can have the white slip stamped and cleared by the assessor, either before or after actual tax payment. Where the personal property tax is not secured by real estate, car owners will be subject to penalties in December for non-payment of the tax.

In cases where the present woner of a car made the purchase after March 5, 1934, the white slip bears a printed tax clearance which serves in lieu of a stamped clearance in securing renewal of registration.

License plates will be issued by the Division of Registration at offices in various principal cities, with mail applications received by the Sacramento office. Plates will be issued by the Automobile Association to member motorists at offices in thirty-three northern and central California cities.

A Stte fee of $3 is required for renewing registration and issuing plates for private passenger automobiles.

Eleanor Estes, an Orlando girl, was chosen "Honorary Colonel" of the University of Florida R. O. T. C., in a recent contest.

SPECIAL MEETINGS IN NAZARENE CHURCH

Grace Church of the Nazarene at Santa Barbar avenue and Vista Grande is now conducting a series of special revival meetings with Rev. James H. Sturgis and his wife as the evangelists.

Rev. Sturgis is a gifted preacher, and both he and Mrs. Sturgis are unusually gifted singers. The preaching and singing have been better than anything this church has had in the line of special meetings since their coming to Daly City.

The church inviets all to come and enjoy the meetings and meet these gifted young people, who are doing such good work in the evangelistic field.

The church is indeed happy to announce the return to the pastortae of their former pastor, Rev. J. M. Gill. Rev. Gill had to leave the pastorate last June on account of poor health. He is now completely recovered and returns with new vigor and greater visions and more zealousness than ever.

To all who mourn and want comfort, to those who have tried and failed, and to those who have strayed from the fold, to those who have never known the Shepherd's care, and to those who are under a cloud and need the sunshine of His love, as well as to the stranger and all who need a friend, Grace Church of the Nazarene swings wide her doors and in His name bids you welcome.

Mission At Local Church

Beginning Sunday next, November 18, and closing on November 25, a Mission will be preached in Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church, Daly City.

Two very distinguished Missioners of the Redemptionist Order, Fathers Oehm and Darmody, will conduct the services. Attracted by their preaching, thousands have attended the annual Novena in years past.

An invitation is extended to Catholic and non-Catholic alike to attend and profit by the Mission.
